What answers do you still need?
Cost and complexity of POS, more experience with Webflow
Why would they kill something that has no obvious peer/equivalent in the marketplace??
Can pOS serve my client base
Ideally it would be best if platform OS was cheaper, as most of our sites are using complex liquid - so we need a platform that uses Liquid Markup - this seems to be the crutch in the whole thing.
Any help or updates with Platform OS or Umbraco that isn't already available. A 'getting started' webinar of how to migrate an existing client to either platform would be great as well, but I don't know if the platforms are far along enough for that quite yet.
Not a developer, so I would love to hear how ActionPanel is coming - though I want to learn and add developer skills to my stack - so training would be fantastic.

None. Might consider Platform OS at some point when they get their act together

It'd be great to know what WP plugins people are using to duplicate various BC features and functions.

Want to see if CodeProduction can deliver their solutions with extensive web app support.

Waiting to see how Synergy8 and platformOS shake out

Solutions are cobbled together with 3rd party apps - CRM, CMS, Email Marketing - I do not want to offer a matrixed solution to my customers. I am looking at this from my customer's perspective - if I offer a bundled solution e.g. Webflow, MailChimp and an ecommerce solution, that will be a very hard sell. I'd love for Adam Broadway to figure out his platform pricing - PlatformOS is half as promising as the presentation and the price is reasonable, I love to get busy migrating to that platform.

Email

I'm still figuring out the best options for third party integrations

Staying in loop
Understand the tools/front end frame works, admin etc to get started building
Waiting for more info on Treepl and Platform OS and hoping they will do everything that BC did but better.
Conversion quality when so much custom development and app dev
What will BC Gurus do moving forward. I wouldn't mind moving to a platform they will use.
Integrated CRM solution? Email Marketing solution? Email account hosting? Complex webapp transition?
Ability to track inventory for product variables. Next, to manage Training Events display by category, registration/payment, and secure login access to purchased online training modules. Apps-like functionality in a mobile-ready website.
Future of CodeProduction + platformOS hosting costs
How stable, developer-heavy, cost of sites on the POS.

Nothing at the moment, a case of monitoring what others are experiencing and seeing what alternatives they try

Solution for email management

Pricing, partner benefits, solidity and felxibility of the email campaign capabilities

Just waiting for platform os

Struggling with a concise ecommerce system that can match BC product groupings / variations

Email, Web, CRM and newsletter in 1 platform???

Detailed information on how Weebly Cloud works

I'd like to keep some clients on BC for a couple of years but I don't trust Adobe. Do I take the hit and move the sites, or have the customers pay?

More details on the Admin interface and features with time schedules for P-OS

A good hosting solution and all in one admin.

Answers the are clear regarding pricing and transferring functionality relating to existing BC sites, modules and web apps. The first presentation about PlatformOS looked great and it was a moment where I thought this is the solution and I can market PlatformOS to my clients as a direct BC upgrade. However, I got fairly confused when the discussion turned to talking about using Treepl as an entry option or something to do with having less than a certain amount of clients and no clear pricing? It was the first week of hearing the news about Adobe killing BC so it was very understandable that everyone is scrambling, but the presentation lacked clarity for those of us not exactly technically astute as a full time programmer to understand the underlining structure of the options being discussed and how they would affect me and my clients.

Is there greater interest for migrating to an open source platform ?

Migration ... we want to see a seamless transfer if that's possible.

Learning the platform

I'm waiting to see the offerings from platform OS/code production
I was curious why Adobe didn't offer their Experience Cloud for a reduced price to all BC-clients.
Migration processes, pricing is a problem - need to sell to my clients that they will pay more and get less....
pricing, some specific functionality questions

Waiting on Platform OS and code production to finalise feature and price
I would like somebody to demo Shopify in the context of BC. In general, the demos so far have been mainly system overviews with some focus on web apps. I would like to see more focus on the eCommerce side of things, so we can see how other systems stack up against Shopify. I am usually unavailable for the live Webinar, but usually watch the recordings, but if you do organise a demo of Shopify I will make sure I attend the live event.

Patience is the long game here !
Clarity about migration
Nothing provides as complete a solution as BC at the price point BC offered. Need a comprehensive BC alternative.
How all of these pieces fit together, what 3rd party systems are still needed and overall all $. Getting into the dirt is the only way I'm able to rewrite my processes and get this worked out.
Not certain about how to get started and what to communicate to clients.
Whats working well for other partners? What platforms are they liking and why
Dev resources
Pricing!! When will I have pricing nailed down. $50 p/m starting, but with what limits!!
